DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 1-20, 31 and 32 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. A partially cured adhesive that remains voidless after outgassing.

Applicant is required to cancel the new matter in the reply to this Office Action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-20, 31 and 32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over applicant's admitted prior art (APA) in combination with Forray (U.S 2002/0062923).

APA (Fig.1) discloses a semiconductor device comprising: affixing a solder mask (18) to a semiconductor die (12) with an adhesive (14), with electrically connecting contacts on a die (20) with contacts on said solder mask (22) attaching a chip to said solder mask.

The admitted prior art does not appear to disclose an adhesive layer that is curable at a temperature below about 100 degree Celsius and at a temperature about 20-50 degrees than a glassy temperature of said adhesive layer with contact substantially free from contaminants outgassed from said solder mask or an encapsulant molded over the die.

However, Forray utilizes a bismaleimide partially cured adhesive with a semiconductor device that remains voidless after outgassing (Abstract: "reduced void formation upon curing"; Paragraph 0048), and is fully curable at a temperature below about 100 degree Celsius (Par. 0007, Lines 6-8), wherein the adhesive is inherently cured at a temperature between 20 to 50 degrees higher than glassy temperature (T_g) of said adhesive layer (admittedly by applicant, Page 6, bismaleimide T_g is 5-10 degree Celsius); and said adhesive contains an initiators (Par. 0028, Lines 9-10) which reacts at a temperature about 100 degree Celsius.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to form the device of the admitted prior art with the adhesive of Forray, in order to bond the chip and to eliminate void formation in the adhesive during a cure process as taught by Forray (Abstract; Par. 0047) and thus the contacts are inherently substantially free of contaminants (via limited outgassing because no voids formed in adhesive).

With respect to an encapsulant over the die, examiner takes official notice that encapsulating a die was well known at the time the present invention was made and that it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to form an encapsulant over the die of the prior art in order to protect the die.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-20, 31 and 32 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
